FRIDAY MORNING MUSIC CLUB

Artist Recital Given by C. T. Tittman and Chorus.

The December artist recital of the Friday Morning Music Club was given by Mr. Charles Trowbridge Tittman, basso-iast Friday morning. The chorus of the club assisted. In a more diversified pro-gram than Mr. Tittman had yet given in gram than Mr. Tittinan had yet given in Washington he discovered, in addition to the well-known rich and beautiful timbre of his voice, a marked color variety and versatility of interpretation. The character of Mr. Tittinan's voice has found its best expression hitherto in such grand and majestic style of solo work as is to be found in the best oratorios. In Fig. found in the best oratorios. In Friday's program the ballade "Edward," of Loewe, a series of mounting climaxes in a heroir-tragic narrative, gave testimor." to vocal endurance and dramatic power.

The English ballad "Gypsy John," quite another style of narrative form, was sung in a masteriy way. The deep pathos of Strauss' "Mein; Herz ist pathos of Strauss' "Mein's Herz ist Stumm" was interesting in contrast with the exquisite tenderness of Schubert's "Viegenlied." The old French tender remance, "La Charmante Marguerite," and Tosti's "Aprile," the one song of simple graceful sentiment, and the other a lovely lyric piece, made variety. The "Caro mio ben," of Giordani, and the old sacred lullaby of Korner were of thom-songs of simple dignity, of which Mr. Tutman is perfect master.

Mr. Heinrich Hammer, conductor of the chorus of the club, can always be counted upon to lay his hearers under obligation for the production of new and worthy choral works. The three Swedish GREEN a beloved husband of Mary Lit-tle Greenawait.

worthy choral works. The three Swedien folksongs arranged by Saar, and the Track of Max Britch, were the first crimework and a group of chorals of those given, and a group of chorals commemorative of the Christmas school. by Chaminade, Gevaert and Spicker, fol-lowed later. Miss Lucy Brickenstein played the solo accompaniments.
